I beg your pardon mister for intruding privacy
     G                                       D7
I was sitting on the barstool I couldn't help but see
      G                                   G7                C
By the way you've been drinking it must be an awful mood you're in
          G                                 D7            G
You're not drowning your heartache you're just teaching it to swim

                                   G7               C
You wonder what came over you why did she treat you so
   G                                                D7
You sit and drink in sorrow wishing all the hurt would go
     G                                       G7            C
Guess you've ask yourself a hundred times what did she see in him
          G                                 D7            G
You're not drowning your heartache you're just teaching it to swim

              D7                            G
Perhaps you're wondering how a stranger like me could understand
A7                                  D7
But I've got a feeling we're in the same boat my friend
    G                                   G7              C
Just like you I lost my darling she just walked away with him
          G                                 D7            G
You're not drowning your heartache you're just teaching it to swim
C         G                                 D7            G
You're not drowning your heartache you're just teaching it to swim
