A Munster Love Song

D G A
I saw her first on a morning fair,
D A G D
When nature smiled and the world was young.
G A
The sunlight gleamed on her golden hair,
D G D
And the black-bird's carol was sweetly sung,
Bm A Bm A
We walked by the murm-'ring river side
Em D Em G
And home-ward turned with the setting sun,
D G A
And she shyly whispered she'd be my bride.
D G D
To be by my side 'till life was done.

And now dear love, though your golden hair,
Has lost through time it's sunny glow,
To me your still the vision fair,
I saw one morning long ago.
The world is old the wind blows chill
But once again love, hear me say
I loved you then I'll love you still,
Till all my life shall pass away.
Till all my life shall pass away
