

No Place To Hide

Allison Krauss & Union Station

When I was a child I used to love to watch the rain
I'd stand under the downspout, let the water cool my brain
I never thought to worry if the river rose too high
That all the seeds we planted would get washed out with the tide

But now I am a man, And I need a place to hide

But there's no where to run, And there's no place to hide

F

C

Where the water runs free, And the mud starts to slide

When I was a young man I could work through wind and rain
I never thought to worry, had no reason to complain
I thought that I standing on a rock so firm and strong
But was easy then to see just what was right and what was wrong

But now I am a man, I won't be hanging 'round too long
