

Bluegrass Songs - Lyrics
www.traditionalmusic.co.uk

I haven't got the right to love you

Oh my dear, I haven't got the right to love you
Deep regrets of yesterday still torture me
I wish I didn't have to face this guilty conscience
Like I do each time I see you secretly

I feel that I am stealing part of heaven
Every time I hold you in my arms this way
Cause I know I haven't got the right to love you
While my heart is bound by vows of yesterday

It will be so hard for us to stay apart dear
And condemn this love that's growing day by day
Though I know I haven't got the right to love you
Can I ever tell my heart that it's too late

I'd give the world if only I could hold you
Without feeling guilty of an awful crime
Though I know I haven't got the right to love you
In my heart I can hold feeling that your mine