

What about you

The days have seemed long and I have been lonesome
Recalling those dream, that never came true
The nights have been lonely, but now that's all over
I've paid my debt for trusting in you

Every day your memory grows dimmer
Clouds drift away sunshine creeps thru
Every night no longer you haunt me
My conscience is clear, what about you

It's hard to believe that you are the same one
That once meant so much, whom I loved so true
It's hard to know I worshipped a false one
But I've paid for it, what about you
