

Somebody Else's Town
(Crosby/Pevar/Raymond)

Blood is thicker than water Friendship's stronger than fear Love is God's favorite daughter It's perfectly clear I can see it tonight in the comets faint light as my heels hit pavement wet from the night Rain that's coming whispering down on somebody else's town

A broken down dinner with three people in it Pulls my attention for half a minute
I think about tryin' to talk To explain why I'm takin' this walk

Why a simple motel room can be some kind of hell room It's making me get up and stalk thisway cause I don't want to say that I'm down in
somebody else's town

I am stronger than this I have been here before I am no frekin' kid in this first taste of war
With the loneliness drifting around herein
somebody else's town

Music spills out into the street
Must be someone in there I could meet
But I think I will telephone home Hear that soft sleepy voice on the phone Keep them awake by the sound of mytalking Tell the truths I found out walkin' in somebody else's town
