

The Sun Is Burning
The Dubliners
Written by Ian Campbell

The[G] sun is[C] burning in the[G] sky,
Strands of[C] clouds go slowly drifting[D] by.
In[G] the park the dreamy bees are droning in[C] the flowers among the trees
[D]And[G] the[C] sun burns in the[G] sky.

Now the sun is in the west,
Little babes lie down to take their rest,
And the couples in the park are holding hands and waiting for the dark
And the sun is in the west.

Now the sun is sinking low,
Children playing know it's time to go.
High above a spot appears, a little blossom blooms and then draws near
And the sun is sinking low.

Now the sun has come to earth
Shrouded in a mushroom cloud of death.
Death comes in a blinding flash of hellish heat and leaves a smear of ash
And the sun has come to earth.

Now the sun has disappeared
All that's left is darkness, pain and fear.
Twisted sightless wrecks of men go crawling on their knees and cry in pain
And the sun has disappeared.