

Remember me (When the Candle Lights are Gleaming)

By: Scotty Wiseman, who performed it with his wife, Lulu Belle Performed by Bob Dylan on the "East Orange Tape" (early 1961), and in an unreleased fragment from the Don't Look Back (1965)
 material

The sweetest ^C songs are sung by ^F lovers in the ^C moonlight,

The sweetest ^G days are the days that used to be. ^C

The saddest ^C words I ever heard were words of ^F parting ^C

When you said ^G "Sweetheart, remember me." ^C

Remember me when the candle lights are gleamin', ^F ^C

Remember me at the close of a long, long day. ^G ^C

Just be so sweet when all alone you're dreamin' ^F ^C

Just to know you still remember me. ^G ^C

A brighter face may take my place when we're apart, dear,

A brighter smile an' a love more bold and free.

But in the end, fair weather friends may break your heart, dear.

An' if they do, sweetheart, remember me.

Remember me when the candle lights are gleamin',

Remember me at the close of a long, long day.

Just to be so sweet when all alone you're dreamin'

Just to know you still remember me.

You told me once you were mine alone forever,

You were mine till the end of eternity.

But now it's over, dear, and we can never

Be the same except in memory.

Remember me when the candle lights are gleamin',

Remember me at the close of a long, long day.

Just be so sweet when all alone you're dreamin'

Just to know you still remember me.
