

Come, Oh, Come Home
Martha Oliver, 1896.
James Murray.

Sinner, list to Jesus' call:
"Come, oh, come home";
Offering pardon now to all
Come, oh, come home.
Thou art sickHe offers healing.
Thou art blindHe gives the sight;
Trust His word, and round thee stealing
Soon will come the promised light.

Refrain

Come, O sinner, hear Him calling,
Calling now so tenderly,
Offering pardon now to all,
Come to Jesus now.

He is ever at thy side,
Come, oh, come home;
Yield thy heart, and He will guide,
Come, oh, come home.
Where thy faltering steps are treading,
There the saints of old have trod,
'Tis contrition's mazes threading
Leads the sinner up to God.

Refrain

Look to Jesus now for aid,
Come, oh, come home;
Bear the burden on thee laid,
Come, oh, come home.
Follow Christ, who, meekly bending,
Bore thy cross up Calvary,
By the love, all love transcending
He will now thy refuge be.
