

Life's Railway
Will Jones, 1922.

You are traveling on a railway,
Winding through this maze of life,
Climbing up the hills of trial,
Into vales of sin and strife;
But there's one who knows the journey,
He can surely take you through;
Jesus knows the way to glory,
He will safely carry you.

Refrain

Jesus, Savior, blessed Keeper,
Guide us on to Heav'n above;
Where the saints throughout the ages
Will unite in songs of love.

Curves will meet you as you journey,
You will meet with wrecks of time;
You will cross the bridge of sadness,
You will reach some heights sublime.
Never fear, for Christ is with you,
And He knows the way so plain;
Keep your eye on your dear Savior,
He will banish fear and pain.

Refrain

Wind and rain some days will hinder,
Skies will darken, sickness come;
You will want to travel freely
To a friend or heav'nly home;
Put your trust in Christ the Savior,
Well He knows this line and rail;
He will never leave you lonely
For His love will never fail.

Refrain

You will cross the bridge of mercy
And the river of delight,
You will climb the hills supernal,
You shall gain the hills of light;
Soon the home so freely given
Will be seen on "glory's shore";
You have reached the heav'nly station,
Ne'er to leave forevermore.

Refrain