

Still He Is Pleading

Benjamin Hopkins, 1912.

Some one has slighted the Savior today;
Has it been you? Has it been me?
Some one has heedlessly turned Him away;
Has it been you or me?

Refrain

Still He is lovingly pleading today,
Pleading with you, pleading with me;
Tho' we so often have turned Him away,
He's pleading with you and me.

Some one has carelessly spoken His name;
Has it been you? Has it been me?
Some one has brought to Him sorrow and shame.
Has it been you or me?

Some one has said, "Till tomorrow I'll wait."
Has it been you? Has it been me?
Some one will find that tomorrow's too late
Will it be you or me?

Refrain

Some one will heed Him and make Him their choice;
Will it be you? Will it be me?
Some one in Him will forever rejoice
Will it be you or me?
