

The Well of Living Water

W. V. Miller, 1908.

William King and James Harris.

Oh this well of living water
Springing up within my soul,
Gives me blessed satisfaction
While the changing seasons roll;
And in Jesus' love rejoicing,
Still a song of praise I bring,
For the blessed gift of Heaven,
For this ever-living spring.

Refrain

For this well of living water
That is flowing now for me,
Songs of praise and adoration,
Blessed Lord, I bring to Thee.

From the depths unknown 'tis flowing,
From the depths of Jesus' love,
It was purchased by the Savior,
Gift divine from Heav'n above;
He alone can give this water,
"Whosoever will may come,"
Quench his thirst from this pure fountain,
And from Jesus never roam.

Refrain

So the blessed news I'm spreading
Of this dear life-giving spring,
Ever pure and free 'tis gushing
As my Savior's love I sing;
It is flowing, ever flowing
In this grateful heart of mine,
And my tongue shall tell the gladness
Of this matchless grace divine.
