

Unmoved by Fear, My Praise Is Due
Joseph Smith, 1870.
Frederick Venua, ca. 1810.

Unmoved by fear, my praise is due
To Thee, Thou gracious God of saints;
Thy mercies great, Thy counsel true,
My prayers are heard and my complaints;
My prayers are heard and my complaints.

Compassed by love, my heart's best thought
I raise in gratitude to Thee;
Nor wait to thank Thee; all untaught,
Thy love's best gift hath taught it me;
Thy love's best gift hath taught it me.

I fear but that I may not gain
A place beside my noblest friend;
I love, but ah, the sweet refrain,
"On Thee, my Savior, I depend;
On Thee, my Savior, I depend."
