

He Broke Your Memory Last Night
By Reba McEntire

Like a rare piece of crystal, like a fine china cup
 I kept your memory all safely locked up
 Afraid I could never love somebody new
 I was trying to save what I had left of you

Chorus:

Then he broke your memory last night
 I felt it shatter inside
 I guess he held me a little too right
 He broke your memory last night

The moment he touched me with his gentle hands
 Your memory crumbled like a house built on sand
 He swept all the pieces of your love away
 And then gave me his love to put in it's place

Chorus

He broke your memory last night