

Pretty Little Rosy Cheeks - song lyrics

American Old-time song lyrics from www.traditionalmusic.co.uk

PRETTY LITTLE ROSY CHEEKS.

Copyright, 1881, by T. D. Harms & Co.

I've something sweet your ears to greet, for my heart is all aglow;
I will whisper to you softly and the secret you shall know-
So touch those notes so sweet again, I love sweet music's strain;
I'm deep in love, but not to blame, with pretty little rosy cheeks.

Chorus.

This little girl divine, I've loved for many weeks;
She promised to be mine, did pretty little rosy cheeks.

There's not a rose in the garden grows with her that can compare;
With blushing face, sweet form and grace, and diamonds deck her hair;
She promised me, if I'd agree, while walking place from place;
I answered, "Miss, please let me kiss your blushing, little, smiling face."-Cho.