THE WORLD WILL SING AGAIN

Ralton, Miller & Day

Look for the silver lining
Whenever skies are grey
No matter what they thought you'd say
There will come a brighter day

The world will sing again
The bells will ring again
And lonely hearts are meeting
Life begins anew

The sun will rise again
There'll be blue skies again
With not a cloud to hide
The loveliness in view

Although your dreams have gone
Just smile and carry on
There must be a darkest hour
Before the dawn

The world will sing again
A song of spring again
For there'll be happiness
Around the bend for you
And then the dreams you dream
Will all come true

(music)

Although your dreams have gone
Just smile and carry on
There must be a darkest hour
Before the dawn

The world will sing again
A song of spring again
For there'll be happiness
Around the bend for you
And then the dreams you dream
Will all come true
