A home without love is just house

Oh love makes a home and you never feel alone
It's always there any way that you turn
But if love is faded out you will know without a doubt
That the home you're living in is just a house

Oh, the house will tumble down when there's no love around
Love is the key that fits all the doors
Oh you take the love away and it's just another day
To live in a home it's just a house
