

Bluegrass Songs - Lyrics
www.traditionalmusic.co.uk

She has forgotten

Back to my home town I wanderd one day
It seemse that the old sang had drifted away
I wandered down Main Street, the view to enjoy
There I met with a girl I had loved as a boy

Gone are the days when our hearts beat as one
All I can say now is see what you done
Gone are the days when we thrilled to each vow
She has forgotten everything now

I still have her picture her face sweet and fair
A rose that she gave me, a lock of her hair
I'll treasure and keep them, it's silly I know
For she has forgotten, long long ago

* Refrain