Too much love

Too much sorrow, too much pain
Too many reasons, not to go back again
Leaving without her, it's too much to bear
When we're together, too much nothing to share
Too much love, I've never seen
Too much love, I don't know what it means

Lot enough caring, too many lies
Sooner or later, one too many deivities
I've got no reason, for hanging around
And all my possessions, start to waiting me down
Too much love, I've never known
Too much love, I need some of my own
