

Bluegrass Songs - Lyrics
www.traditionalmusic.co.uk

What was I suppose to do

You were my hearts desire you set the flame of love on fire
No other love cold take the place of you
Then you left me all alone so lonesome and so blue
And I found someone to take your place, what was I suppose to do

Was I to walk the floor and worry over endless days to come
Or cry and plea down on my kness for you
I couldn't stand to be alone you left me nothing else to choose
So I found someone to take your place, what was I suppose to do

I know I vowed there'd never be no other love
The dream that I'd been searching for was you
But then that dream came to an end there was no use to pretend
So I found someone to take your place, what was I suppose to do

* Refrain