

The Family Bible
James Rowe, 1909.
Thoro Harris.

There's a precious old book which I read every day,
For it cheers me and helps me along life's way,
And it warns me whenever my spirit would stray;
'Tis the dear old family Bible.

Refrain

O the dear old family Bible!
My precious family Bible!
How it comforts my soul
When the sorrow-waves roll,
This dear old family Bible!

There's a wonderful storehouse by Christians possessed,
Which supplies all my needs when by foes oppressed,
Gives me comfort and joy, perfect rapture and rest;
'Tis the dear old family Bible.

Refrain

There's a precious old book which I value and love,
For it tells of a beautiful home above,
And of Jesus who died His great mercy to prove;
'Tis the dear old family Bible.
