

Kiss Just Once Again - song lyrics

American Old-time song lyrics from www.traditionalmusic.co.uk

KISS JUST ONCE AGAIN.

Copyright, 1886, by E. Harding.

Words and Music by Chattel Connolly.

The wondrous, witching bliss of every loving kiss
Will linger in our hearts forever more;
So when our lips are met, be wise and ne'er forget,
Whene'er you kiss repeat it o'er and o'er.
What sweet delight, what pleasure bright,
What dreams of love lie in the rapture of a kiss-then

Chorus.

Kiss, * kiss, * kiss just once again, then again, * *
Once again, * * kiss, * kiss, * fear not 'twill give pain,
For you and I and all of us must kiss, *
So let us kiss. * *

When race of love begins, the faint heart never wins;
To "do and dare" with ardent, loving grace
Is what the battle needs-not words so much as deeds-
For vict'ry comes in love's fond, sweet embrace.
What sweet delight, what pleasure bright,
What dreams of love lie in the rapture of a kiss-then-Chorus.

Kiss at sign *